

Once you do Amphetamines you may regret it for life

Amphetamines are classified as Category Two narcotics in Taiwan. Transporting or manufacturing Amphetamines may be punished with a maximum sentence of life imprisonment; using or possessing Amphetamines may be punished with a three-year maximum fixed-term imprisonment. Using Amphetamines will violate the narcotics prevention laws and send you to prison, spend all your money, and cause mental and physical harm to you.

WHEN MEDICINES BECOME NARCOTICS

The foreign workers who work in Taiwan are covered by health insurance. If a migrant feels unwell, they should go to a medical clinic to get the medicines they need. Bringing in or sending any drugs to Taiwan that contain any narcotic material will violate relevant laws and regulations and incur a penalty.

* There is just a fine line between drugs and narcotics. In Taiwan, any drugs that are addictive, narcotic, mentally influencing, or deemed necessary to strengthen control are controlled drugs. The controlled drugs legally offered by the doctor with prescriptions for medical treatment are drugs, and the controlled drugs abused for any non-medical uses are narcotics.
